

Making New Friends at the Playground

I went to the playground and saw two kids playing. I felt a little shy.

I wanted to play, too. I took a deep breath.

I walked over and said, "Can I join?"
They looked at me and smiled.

One kid said, "Sure! We are playing with the ball." I felt happy.

We took turns throwing the ball. I said,
"Your turn," and waited.

When I waited, they wanted me to play more. It felt good to share.

We laughed and had fun together. I was glad I asked to join.

Now, I have new friends at the playground. I feel proud.
