

Words That Make Friends

Today, I played with my friend Sam. I asked, "Can I have the red block, please?"

Sam smiled and gave me the block.
Saying "please" made Sam happy.

Thank you, Sam!

Later, Sam shared his toy car with me.
I said, "Thank you, Sam!"

Sam's face lit up with a big smile.
Saying "thank you" felt really good.

I accidentally knocked over Sam's tower. I said, "I'm sorry, Sam."

Sam said, "That's okay," and we built the tower again. Saying "sorry" helped us feel better.

Using kind words made us both smile.
Sam and I had fun playing together.

I learned that words like "please,"
"thank you," and "sorry" are special.
They help me make friends.
