

“Every person in the world is different, including me.”

“We all have our own ways of thinking, playing, learning, and feeling.”

“Being different doesn’t make anyone wrong—it makes us unique.”

“I may like things that others don’t, and that’s okay.”

“Other people may enjoy things that I don’t, and that’s okay too.”

“My strengths, interests, and feelings belong to me.”

“Someone else’s strengths and interests belong to them.”

“When I meet people who are different from me, I can learn from them.”

“People who are different can also learn from me.”

“Different voices, ideas, and experiences make the world more interesting.”

“I don’t have to act like everyone else to belong.”

“I can be myself and still be accepted and loved.”

“I can celebrate the things that make me special.”

“I can also celebrate differences in other people.”

“When we accept each other, everyone feels safe and happy.”

“Being different is not just okay—it’s what makes the world wonderful.”

Vocabulary

- Unique

A: Special and different in a good way. (Correct)

B: The same as everyone else.

- Accept

A: To include and be kind to someone as they are.
(Correct)

B: To ignore someone because they are different.

- Strength

A: Something I'm good at. (Correct)

B: Something I can never do.

- Celebrate

A: Feel happy about something and appreciate it.
(Correct)

B: Hide it away.

- Belong

A: Feel included and part of a group. (Correct)

B: Feel left out.

Spellings

A: Diffrent

B: Different (Correct)

A: Speshal

B: Special (Correct)

A: Learn (Correct)

B: Lurn

A: Wurld

B: World (Correct)

A: Kind (Correct)

B: Kynd

Comprehension

- Why is it okay to be different?

A: Because everyone is unique. (Correct)

B: Because everyone must be the same.

What can I do when someone likes something

- different from me?

A: Respect their interest. (Correct)

B: Make fun of them.

- What makes the world interesting?

A: Different ideas and experiences. (Correct)

B: Everyone acting the same.

- Do I need to act like others to belong?

A: No, I can be myself. (Correct)

B: Yes, only one way is allowed.

- What happens when we accept each other?

A: Everyone feels safe and happy. (Correct)

B: People get upset.

Open-Ended Questions

- What makes you different in a special way?

- How does it feel when someone accepts you as you are?

- What differences do you notice in your friends?

- How can you show kindness to someone who is different from you?

Role-Play Activity

- Scenario 1

A friend chooses a different game than you.

→ Practice saying, “That’s okay! We like different things.”

- Scenario 2

You meet someone who looks or speaks differently.

→ Practice saying hello kindly and showing interest.

- Scenario 3

Someone has a different way of solving a problem.

→ Practice listening and appreciating their idea.

- Scenario 4

A friend teaches you something new from their culture or interest.

→ Practice saying, “Wow! That’s interesting!”